Overview

Cuautla is a small town on the state of Morelos in which there has been always little movement and a relaxed and nice community. But with a growing problem, the "narcotráfico", which have been taken over the whole state. But specifically, because of the kind of town it is, Cuautla has been a target for this kind of criminality. Moreover, the main criminal activity, rather than drugs, is asking for "piso", basically extortion. Which is taking over the entrepreneurs and businesses of the people.

Objective

The objective of this project, is to show how the Narcotráfico has been a big problem, not for the government, but mainly for the society and the people who work straight and make an effort everyday so they and their relatives can have a better life and people who undertake businesses. And to showcase how most of the problems that the Narco brings, is uncontrollable for the government. Moreover, there is always that myth about them be related to it.

Discussion

There exists a lot of factors when analyzing this data, since, as known, the central part of México, is one of the most dangerous or with the most criminal activity overall. Moreover, there are a lot of municipalities where the criminal activity keeps rising, and with a poor educational system, youngsters, which are the ones that join gangs and Cartels mainly, are drawn upon been part of this problem.

The data gathered is based on Cuautla, although there might be some irregularities, since, the government does not take a lot of consideration on gathering the data, or, to say the least, they do what they can. So, as a final thought, I will add that, the point I want to show with this data is the problems to the economy and the overall well-being of the population of Cuautla, that the Narcotráfico brings and takes over just because they have to be feared, because they are known for the nonexistent morals of their low-life.

Testimonies

As an empirical approach, there has been way too many testimonies about how the "Narco" has been a growing problem and will, eventually, get rid of every business and, probably, everyone living in Cuautla, even though it is a poor municipality, people are willing to give up their patrimony so they can live a peaceful life.

Data analysis

The main data collected for the analysis of the project is the growth and overall analysis of the businesses in Cuautla, using the Deneu database. In which the main goal is to show the growth of businesses and how throughout the time this recollect data has changed. And, to contrast this, I am utilizing a dataset where it shows the overall criminality growth and the kind of criminality, and with this, show the correlation and the kind of criminality that has grown.
